

ASGE POSTGRADUATE COURSE

OPTIMIZING ENDOSCOPIC OUTCOMES IN LIVER DISEASE

Held in conjunction with AASLD's The Liver Meeting® 2018

Friday, November 9, 2018 — Moscone Convention Center, San Francisco, CA

COURSE DIRECTORS

Anne Marie Lennon, MD, PhD, FASGE
Johns Hopkins Medical Institution
Baltimore, MD

Rajesh N. Keswani, MD, MS
Northwestern University
Chicago, IL

WHY YOU SHOULD ATTEND

Gastrointestinal endoscopy plays an integral role in the evaluation and management of patients with advanced liver diseases as well as patients with biliary tract disease. The endoscopic management of these patients is often complex and challenging. Attendees of this session will have the opportunity to enhance their knowledge with state-of-the-art presentations on the endoscopic management of a variety of conditions related to this special population.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

Upon completion of the course participants should be able to:

- Identify how to perform high quality colonoscopy in patients with liver disease
- Employ current, evidenced based interventions for managing bleeding related to portal hypertensive gastropathy, GAVE, gastric and esophageal varices
- Discuss the role of endoscopy in managing biliary adverse events in the post-liver transplant patient
- Recognize controversies in the management of cholangiocarcinoma
- Discuss the role of endoscopic bariatric procedures in patients with liver disease

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

- Hepatologists
- Gastroenterologists
- Nurse Practitioners
- Physician Assistants
- Surgeons
- Fellows/Trainees
